- Received the National Stroke Association's 2016 RAISE Award: Most Impactful
- Conducted four separate research studies in collaboration with our Scientific Board Members to understand language recovery post stroke
- Presented research findings at the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association Convention in Philadelphia in November 2016
- Received over 7,000 volunteer hours from undergraduate and graduate speech therapy students from universities across Texas
- Raised over $260,000 at the 2016 ONE WORD AT A TIME fundraiser to help stroke survivors recover their words

History:

Austin Speech Labs was founded by two speech therapists that saw a gap between services covered by medical insurance and what stroke survivors truly need in order to be able to return to their social and professional lives. They provide a supportive environment for their clients so that they can complete intensive, individualized speech therapy required for optimum stroke recovery. They want to help their clients regain their speech so they can express themselves to their families and loved ones, which Austin Speech Labs considers a basic human need. To support this need, Austin Speech Labs provides individualized intensive speech, language, and cognitive therapy to stroke survivors at a cost of $10 per hour, with over 30 percent of their clients receiving free therapy.
